TWO ADULTS AND BABY BURNED TODAY WHEN HOUSE IS DESTROYED BY FIRE AT CROYDON; NONE BELIEVED SERIOUS

Mrs. Edith Rollinson, Her Son Joseph Hall, and Latter's Infant Daughter Are Treated — Contents of Home Destroyed — Mrs. Hall Escapes Injury By Leaping From Window

CROYDON, Mar. 23—Two adults and an infant were burned here this morning in a fire which totally destroyed their home with all of the contents.

Those burned: Joseph Hall, 30, burned about face and hands. Mrs. Edith Rollinson, 52, mother of Mr. Hall, burned about face, hands and neck.

Joanne Hall, 19 months old, burned about face and hands. The blaze consumed the one-story frame bungalow, with all of its contents of clothing, furniture, food, a sum of money, and a diamond ring. The loss is roughly estimated at $3,000. The dwelling was owned by Mrs. Mallard, of Philadelphia.

The origin of the fire has not been determined, but it is believed that it started from an oil stove. Mrs. Hall escaped being burned by jumping from a window, a distance of about 10 feet to the ground.

All of the family were in bed at the time of the fire except Patricia Hall, seven, who had left for school. Mrs. Hall, the mother, had returned to bed after getting her daughter ready for school. After Patricia left the house, Mrs. Hall put some water on the oil stove preparing to do the family wash, and while the water was heating she returned to the bedroom at about nine o'clock to lie down for a little while. Suddenly she noticed smoke coming into the bedroom, and about that time the fire was discovered by the other members of the family. Mrs. Hall leaped from the window to the ground, and called for the others to follow her, but they had made their

"Peeping Tom" Shot In Back Of The Head

PHILADELPHIA, Mar. 23—A tall, husky man said to resemble a "Peeping Tom" who has been annoying Upper Darby women the last several weeks was shot in the back of the head shortly before last midnight and was reported dying at Delaware County Hospital.

The suspect, identified by Detective Norman Keely as William H. Burris, Marshall road near Littlecroft road, Stoneyhurst Hills, fell with a .45-caliber bullet in his head as he fled from the home of Stephen Szuck, 31, of 301 Hampden road, Upper Darby.

Keely said Szuck fired the shot after he surprised Burris on his front doorstep. The suspect's presence on the doorstep was announced by a home-made electrical alarm system that sounded a bell in Szuck's living room.

Szuck said he and his wife were sitting in the living room when the bell went off. Szuck grabbed his automatic pistol, then opened the door. The suspect fled when he saw the gun. Szuck said he ordered the man to halt—then fired a shot.

Szuck, a toolmaker at an electrical appliance manufacturing plant, was taken to Upper Darby police station. Police said the gun he used had been borrowed from his neighbor, William A. Bennett, 393 Hampden road.

STOCKHAM ASKS AID FOR FARMER IN A RESOLUTION

Asks Gov. Martin To Appeal To President To Furlough The Necessary Skilled Workers

MACHINERY REPAIRS

Parts and Replacements Should Be Made Available, He Says

Appealing to the President of the United States concerning the food crisis and for help to the farmer, a resolution was presented in the legislature at Harrisburg by Hon. Thomas B. Stockham, representing Bucks County.

The resolution was signed by Chairman Reagan and vice chairman, Gyger of the Agriculture Committee; and Chairman Ely and vice chairman Fullerton of the Dairy Industry Committee. Thomas Jones, a leading potato grower of Pennsylvania, along with Representative Stockham also signed the resolution.

Along with the resolution Representative Stockham introduced a bill legalizing Governor Martin's commission which the Governor recently appointed and which gives to the Commission the sum of $250,000 to help in the manpower problem of the farmer and to work through the State colleges down to the local farm bureaus and the vocational training in the schools, together with the co-operation of the Boy Scout Councils throughout the State.

The resolution reads: WHEREAS: Food is of major importance to the prosecution of the war on the battle front and the home front, and

WHEREAS: Food is essential for our Allies and our occupied territories, and WHEREAS: The production of food for 1943 is gravely impaired by shortage of manpower, lack of availability of farm machinery, repair parts and insufficient apportionment of fuel to the agencies from which the farmers are accustomed to procure it, and

WHEREAS: New Machinery supplies for 1944 will greatly affect the extent to which farmers will use up their machinery this year and WHEREAS: Decreased farm production combined with necessary shipments to our Allies and to the inhabitants of the occupied territories

APPLICATIONS MADE FOR SUPPLEMENTAL GASOLINE COUPONS

With "A" Coupons Stretched Over Longer Period, Many Apply

MUST BE CHECKED

Need Must First Be Proved, Then Supplemental Books Will Be Issued

With the time for holders of "A" gasoline coupons stretched to twice its usual period, thus allowing said motorists the equivalent of about 1-1/3 gallons per week, the Bristol Rationing Board officials are receiving a number of applications for supplemental coupon books.

"A" coupon No. 5 became valid yesterday. Applications for supplemental ration books began to arrive at the office of the local board on Saturday, and yesterday approximately 30 were received.

These must first be checked to determine if previous supplemental books were issued, then the applications studied carefully to see if a need is proved. If it is determined that the driver has a definite need supplemental coupons will be issued.

"Most of the applicants for supplemental books are employed, and must use their cars to reach their places of employment," stated a spokesman for the board today.

There appears to be some misunderstanding on the part of many drivers and also gasoline dealers, it is stated, as to value of "A" coupons. Each "A" coupon is exchangeable for three gallons of gasoline, the board points out, although the period of time over which coupons are to be used is doubled, thus making about 1-1/3 gallons per week for each "A" card holder.

Patton's Troops Capture Maknassy

Allied Headquarters in North Africa—Crack American troops under Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr. today captured the vital town of Maknassy as Axis armies staggered back everywhere on the Tunisian front under a terrific Allied offensive.

An official communique announced seizure of Maknassy from the hands of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel as the Algiers radio reported that the British Eighth Army in the south had outflanked the Mareth Line in a forced march of 100 miles.

The British were reported to have reached a point only ten miles south of El Hamma, a railway junction 30 miles to the rear of the Mareth Line and about 20 miles west of Gabes on the seacoast. At the same time, the Algiers radio reported American forces only 30 miles from the sea.

The most notable feature of the campaign thus far has been the intensity of Allied air attack. Observers described it as the most concentrated ever seen on any battlefield, with enemy concentrations and communication lines subjected to ceaseless bombing and strafing by planes of every description.

British Bombers Resume Night Raids

London—British bombers resumed night raids, after a ten-day lapse, with a heavy assault on the Nazi submarine base at St. Nazaire, on the French coast, an Air Ministry announcement reported today.

The night attack restored the program of round-the-clock raids on the Reich and occupied Europe which was recessed by bad weather following the 1,000-ton RAF raid on Essen the night of March 13.

The attack on St. Nazaire was understood to have been made by a "strong force"—possibly several hundred bombers—and was declared to have been "extremely successful."

The loss of but a single bomber over this strongly defended target was regarded as a notable achievement.

SPRING IN RUSSIA

Although the Russian winter campaign has caused losses in German men and equipment approaching the proportions of a major disaster, it has not resulted in the knock-out blow that at one time seemed imminent.

The Red Army in the south has not been able to take advantage of the capture of Rostov. It has not been able to drive down to the Sea of Azov and cut off the retreat of Nazi forces from that city. It has not forced the evacuation of the Crimea. There has not been a German Dunkerque in the Strait of Kerch.

Moreover, Hitler's ability to muster powerful mechanized divisions and concentrate them effectively at a single point is being demonstrated at Kharkov, which had fallen into Russian hands only a few weeks ago. Occupation of the German stronghold of Vyazma is not without disappointment. The Russian plan of encirclement was foiled by stiff Nazi resistance on each flank, allowing the Germans to withdraw from Vyazma in good order.

The question which is beginning to take form in the minds of Allied strategists is this: Will Hitler be able to undertake a third campaign into Russia this summer—and if the answer is in the affirmative, will he elect to stage another great offensive or decide on holding operations, using the cream of his air and mechanized forces to fend off the expected Allied invasion?

Although Stalin has failed to achieve two of his objectives, driving the Nazis off Russian soil and destroying their armies in the process, he has one magnificent accomplishment to his credit. Not only were the Germans prevented from taking the Caucasus and exploiting its oil resources, but the Russians exacted so heavy a toll in materiel and manpower that Hitler has been weakened.

Now and again he may be able to exert terrific power on certain fronts, as at Kharkov, but a third defeat in Russia would signal the beginning of the end. He may make an invasion attempt costly for the United Nations, but his capacity for enduring a long drawn out war has been undermined by his experiences in Russia. Hitler is diverting occupation forces to front-line duty, and combating the populations of conquered countries for slave labor. But with the RAF and the American Air Force pounding his factories and his already over-burdened transportation system, he is having increasing difficulty replacing materiel and moving it to its destination.

Russia has paid the greatest price in lives for this depletion of German resources, but Great Britain and the United States are contributing an important diversion. In the months to come the burden of taking the offensive will rest upon them, and when the victory is finally won no nation will be able to claim a monopoly on credit for the Axis defeat.

Continual reiteration of the statement that clothing rationing is not contemplated doesn't mean that a wife should buy an entirely new wardrobe without consulting her husband.

Some of the government experts said a short crop this year would mean trouble in the lend-lease countries, and it might even mean a bit of trouble here at home.

Your faith in me
Is why I carried on.
Your faith in me
Was why at last I won.
Without your faith
Life would have been a sorry thing.
Unto that faith

Thus knowing that
Your faith was placed in me,
I gathered strength
To carry through to final victory.

Guyer-Stuhltrager Wedding
Is Solemnized On Saturday

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Mar. 23.—The marriage of Miss Edith Stuhltrager, Cornwells Heights, and William H. Guyer, Jr., quartermaster, 2nd class, of the U. S. Navy "Sea Bees," was an event of Saturday afternoon. The marriage ceremony was performed at 4:30 o'clock in the Tacony Baptist Church, with the pastor of that congregation, the Rev. W. R. Rogers, officiating. The double ring ceremony was used.

The former Miss Stuhltrager is the daughter of Mrs. Ernest Underwood, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Guyer, Mayfair.

Attending the couple were Miss Jean Stuhltrager, sister of the bride; and Mr. George Niven, Mayfair, who will commence army training this week.

Following a small reception at the Guyer home in Mayfair, the bride and groom left for a few days' honeymoon trip. The groom expects to leave his base soon for an undisclosed destination with the "Sea Bees."

Today's Quiet Moment

(By the Rev. James R. Galley)
Pastor, Bristol Presbyterian Church

We thank Thee, O Heavenly Father, for the life of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, and for the Passion which He endured for our sakes. Grant unto us the presence of Thy Holy Spirit as we live through the present season. May our minds be turned to Thee and to Thy Son. May we follow His experiences with reverence and gratitude. May we study Thy Word in devotion and consecration. May we be led to the Cross of Christ, that we might there receive forgiveness and life eternal. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

grandson of Mrs. John Downs, Radcliffe street.

MY PLEA!

Heavenly Father, up above,
Please protect the girl I love.
Keep her always safe and sound.
No matter with whom or where she is found.

Help her to know and help her
to see,
That I love her and hope she loves me.

And then, dear Lord,
Help me to be
The boy that she'd expect of me.
—Amen.

ON THE SCREENS

GRAND THEATRE

Music has charms, and tangled romance embellishes it with hilarity in "Three Hearts for Julia," lilted romance with Ann Sothern and Melvyn Douglas as bewildered lovers, now playing at the Grand Theatre.

Douglas plays a foreign correspondent, returned home to find his wife, Julia (Miss Sothern), has taken up music in a big way, with a feminine symphony orchestra and a couple of young musicians who are rivals for her favor. Upon his arrival he is greeted with coolness and divorce papers, and sets forth to straighten out the marital mixup.

Grow These Green Leaves
For Vitamin-Rich Salads

Green Leaves Rich in Vitamins Easily Grown at Home.

Green, leafy foods, which nutritionists say are among the richest in vitamins, should be grown in abundance in the Victory Garden. They include not only greens for cooking, but the salad leaves which are usually served uncooked in bowl salads.

Bowl salads have long attracted the interest of gourmets, many of whom insist on mixing the dressing at the table. Great chefs always include them as an indispensable part of the perfect menu.

The new vitamin discoveries place a special premium on the green coloring in salad leaves, since this indicates their richness in Vitamin A. Here is a point on which the gourmets and doctors agree, since leading chefs in our big cities have been insisting upon leaf and cos rather than head lettuce, where they could get it, for mixing their finest salads. Tight heading sorts, they say, lack flavor and do not do justice to carefully blended dressings.

A most interesting variety of green leaves for bowl salad can be grown by home gardeners, assuring a varied selection throughout the summer and fall. To begin with are leaf and cos lettuce, chefs call the latter romaine. Both are easily grown, leaf lettuce in the early summer and fall, giving leaves large enough to use in thirty days from sowing. Romaine is fully mature in sixty days, and stands the hot weather somewhat better than the leaf type.

Endive is next in importance. It comes in two types, broad and curly leaved. Both have a distinctive flavor. They mature in 70 days, and stand both hot weather and frost. A late sowing should always be made to mature in the fall, when frost improves the flavor.

Corn salad has a fresh and spicy flavor which makes it a welcome ingredient of the bowl salad, and is grown easily in spring and fall. Curled garden cress thrives with ordinary garden culture and imparts a pungent flavor to the bowl salad. Watercress is highly prized and easily grown where there is a good supply of fresh water to keep it constantly moist.

Chervil is an aromatic plant somewhat resembling parsley but superior in flavor; and can be used both in the bowl salad and as a garnishment for meats. Like parsley, the seed is slow to germinate. Sow it with a few radish seeds to mark the row.

Chives is a most useful salad vegetable. It is a cousin of the onion of which the leaves are used. They have a delicate onion flavor, just enough to season the salad. Chives grow from seed easily, and a plant lives many years. It bears an attractive lavender flower and is often used as a border along the garden path.

At least two sowings should always be made of these leaf vegetables, one in the spring and one in midsummer for the fall crop; and as many as four sowings may be made with good results.

KEITCH AND MIKSIS SCORE 35 POINTS TO DEFEAT ROHM & HAAS

Chemical Workers Are Blasted
By the Score of 47 to 36

KEITCH MAKES 21 POINTS

Rohm & Haas Fell By The Wayside In The Third Period

"Bud" Keitch and "Eddie" Miksis were a two-man show on the Mutual Aid floor last night as they scored 35 points between them to enable the Diamond team to blast the Rohm & Haas five, 47-36. The victory ended the playoff series at one game each, with the final game to be played on Thursday night.

Keitch scored seven field goals and dropped in seven out of eight foul tries to score 21 points for the night, while Miksis accounted for six double-deckers and two out of three fouls for 14 points. "Bill" Mignoni had nine points to his credit, while the other three went to "Teddy" Sak.

Miksis was first to give the spark to the Diamond boys. The Mill Streeters had difficulty in finding the range of the basket and were held scoreless for the first seven minutes of the game, while the chemical workers had dropped in three field goals and a foul. But Miksis entered the game at this point, and taking a rebound off the board, scored the first twin-pointer for his team and followed shortly after with another to cut the Rohm & Haas lead to 7-4 at the quarter.

Miksis' mate, Keitch, went into the Diamond lineup in the second quarter and this pair gave the fans a brilliant exhibition of team work. The Diamond team scored 12 points in the second quarter and 11 of these were accounted for by the pair of Burlington youngsters. The other foul shot went to Sak. Rohm & Haas fell by the wayside in the third period as the Jersey boys continued their scoring pace and with exceptionally good shooting increased the Diamond lead to 16 points. At the end of the third period, Manager Nichols took out the five and this seemed to be the sign for the Maple Beach aggregation to get working, and five field goals and a foul in succession in four minutes had cut the Diamond lead to five points.

With four minutes remaining to be played, Nichols again sent in the pair of Burlington boys with Proty and "Jobby" Dugan and kept Mignoni in the lineup. The team had a little difficulty in getting started again but soon worked itself back to its comfortable lead.

Jesse Vanzant was outstanding in the Rohm & Haas defeat. He managed to garner seven field goals and a duo of fouls for 16 points and it was his shooting that kept the Maple Beach outfit in the game until the final period.

The winning aggregation had a good average from the foul line in sinking 11 out of 19 tries with Miksis and Keitch getting 9 out of 11. Rohm & Haas dropped in 4 out of 7 fouls.

In the preliminary game on the Mutual Aid floor, the Bristol Scholastics outplayed the Oldtimers, 38-32, in an interesting and humorous match refereed by Joe Diamanti.

The Oldtimers were led by "Mike" DeRisi who hit the cords for eight field goals and a foul or 17 points while the winning combination was led by Angelo Cordisco and Pete Miller who annexed ten points each.

The Scholastics, composed of mostly players from the Bristol High School, had the lead from the start and had their opponents on the run as they piled up their margin. Only in the third period did the Oldtimers manage to cut deeply into the Scholastics' lead.

exit through the door out into the yard, but in so doing were forced to run through the flames, and in this manner were burned.

The flames made very rapid headway, and it was but an instant before the entire property was ablaze. Firemen were called from Croydon, the Union Company of Cornwells Heights; Goodwill Company of Bristol, and the Bristol Consolidated Company.

The flames spread so rapidly that firemen were unable to stop their progress, a stiff wind handicapping the firemen, but they were successful in preventing spread of the flames to adjoining properties.

Mr. Hall described their loss as complete, saying that everything they possessed was in the house, and had been destroyed. The diamond ring belonged to Mrs. Robinson. A sum of money, approximately $25, was in the house at the time, and this as yet has not been recovered.

Hall is employed by the Hunter Manufacturing Company, Bristol township.

Mr. Hall received treatment for his burns at the first aid station of Bucks County Rescue Squad, as did other members of the family. Mr. Hall later received further treatment from Dr. Gonzalez. The Hall family was taken in by neighbors until such time as they can arrange their affairs.

British Naval Units Called "Blue Nose Fleet" mos out of action, spare dynamo operating thanks to temporary repairs; various range and direction instruments out of commission or crippled by wind and sea; port guard rails carried away by sea; forward gun mounting badly wrenched; one steel davit bent and torn from deck, another of I-beam construction twisted; one Carley boat, its mounting, and a number of canvas shields carried away by the sea; ship's stores (and war correspondents) exhausted.

In addition, at various times during the operation, we had temporary difficulties; guns, kept ready for action by special steam pipes iced up and out of action because the steam pipes themselves froze; after tiller flat flooded by following seas which battered away the hatch; torpedo controls frozen fast; electric heating unavailable due to dynamo trouble; stoves unusable because of rough weather; upper decks impassable because of heavy seas; and ice forming on the upper deck threatening to make the destroyers dangerously top heavy.

Wind: up to 60 miles per hour. Temperature as low as 12 degrees Fahrenheit, with breath congealing in the wardroom and ice flakes forming inside the bulkheads despite the heaters. Sea: heavy spray over the bridge more often than not (I've seen solid waves come into a destroyer's bridge) and waves breaking cleanly over the deck amidships. Visibility, zero most of the time. There was a murky twilight which permitted dim visibility up to two or three miles. For the rest of the "day," there was darkness.

Station-keeping was a nightmare in that gloom. At one point of the operation, five destroyers ran out of a North Russian port in formation. Two nights later there were two of us left in formation; the other three had been blown away in a 48-hour full gale and lost contact completely in the gloom.

Before they left, several collisions were narrowly averted. How we stuck to the flotilla leader I can't say, but before the trip was over she renamed us "H. M. S. Leech."

Zigzagging, doubling back, rolling either side of level, the tiny rugged destroyers took the roughest pounding the Arctic could hand out. On this trip they faced every Arctic peril except ice, which can rip open a destroyer or mangle the plates and screws of a cruiser. They had far more to fear from the elements than from the Germans, and suffered more from them. But they carried on, ready for battle, exercising action stations even when spray was dashing high over the bridge and high seas made upper deck traffic dangerous.

Even existence seemed exhausting to me. I found it hard enough to remain upright on the bridge by clutching at anything handy. The clusters of voice pipes leading away from the bridge were torn and twisted from the strain of supporting officers on duty. A four-hour watch during gales gives you more arm and leg exercise than four hours of the most vigorous calisthenics.

Even eating was a physical workout. Liquids had to be tilted with the roll of the ship. While a rubber tablecloth ordinarily kept plates from sliding, their contents were more agile. On one occasion three of us pursued mobile pork chops the length of the table, and when the wardroom pantry served peas, I gave up.

KEM-TONE at AUTO BOYS

“Goodnight,
Bill Brady...”

Hello, Bill Brady, 'way out there...

I guess the mailman must be mad at us because he hasn't brought a letter since the day you went away. And if he doesn't ring the doorbell soon, I think my heart will break.

There isn't much to tell, tonight, except—since all my letters seem to go astray, I've found another way to say 'I love you.'

Last night I joined the Red Cross.

I'm not anybody there. Just one more woman—cutting dressings, rolling bandages, packing Red Cross kits—hoping the men we love will never need them, but hoping more that they aren't past the need.

I'll be a Staff Assistant before long, Bill. In a very military uniform. I can hear you chuckle, my darling.

I don't mind the extra hours. To me, time isn't measured by the ticking of a clock—it lags or races with the beating of my heart. So time at work is short, because I know that you would have me very busy. I can hear you say "Chin up, and get on with the job."

Good night, Bill Brady. Out there... somewhere.

The Red Cross is shoulder-to-shoulder with our fighting men from training camp to the front lines.

All over the world, wherever it can reach, it is carrying relief supplies, clothing and medicines to war victims.

In this second year of War, the needs increase. You can help with time and money. March is the War Fund month. Give more this year.
